4 Card Holder and Employer Declaration

Cardholder: I confirm that the above information is true and correct.

Employer: I confirm that the above information is true and correct. I understand that if the card holder has medical or competence restrictions, these may limit the extent to which they are deployed on behalf of the company. If the card holder has no experience of a specific work/activity, this is a work-limiting circumstance, and the card holder may not be deployed on the applicable work/activity type, until such time that they have been trained, mentored, and/or assessed to full competence, and the Company has been advised accordingly. I understand that Pre-deployment Safety Critical Checklists are valid for a maximum of 12 months from the date of my sign-off, and that an updated checklist must be sent to the Company Sentinel Coordinator when any change to the cardholder's experiences or competence occurs. Failure to do so may limit the scope of the card holder's deployment.

Working Time Directive and OPT-OUT

The European Union Working Time Directive of a 48-hour maximum working week came into effect on October 1, 1998. The Directive provides minimum daily and weekly rest breaks, an annual holiday entitlement, a limit on the working week to an average of 48 hours, and defined night-working duties.

In the meantime, the employer is required to obtain details as to whether staff members wish to exercise their right to opt in or out of the working hours directive. The maximum weekly working time of 48 hours will be averaged over a 17-week period. Individuals can, if they wish, agree with their employer about the maximum weekly limit, but this must be in writing and on an individual basis. Individuals are given an opportunity to opt back in, in writing to the employer. This does not create an exemption from statutory legal requirements, e.g. the responsibilities of individuals to comply with health and safety legislation.

Please note that if you choose to opt out in order that you can work in excess of 48 hours per week, and then choose to opt back in, you will be required to give seven (7) days' written notice. The 48 hours maximum per week applies to any and all paid employment collectively, not just work undertaken with the company. You are required to notify us in writing of any employment external to the company that you undertake regardless of whether you decide to opt out of the regulations. In order to record our legal obligations, please sign below in the relevant section, and return one copy of this letter to the company, retaining one copy for their own records.

Working Time Regulations 1998 Health Assessment Questionnaire: Night Workers

A night worker is an employee who is scheduled to work at least three hours of his/her daily working time during the night on the majority of days on which he/she is scheduled to work. Night time is defined as the period between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Night workers are entitled to a voluntary health assessment to check whether they are fit for the work required. Very few health problems will prevent people being able to work at night, and where there is a medical problem that could be relevant, it will almost always be possible for the person to be able to work during night hours, with suitable modifications to their treatment programme.

The purpose of the questionnaire is to ask whether you have any health problem that could be affected by night work so that where necessary, an appropriate medical review can be arranged. The questionnaire will be confidential to the Company's Occupational Health Adviser (It is advisable to identify a local Occupational Health Adviser, or to use the area NHS Occupational Health Service), but a report on your fitness will be provided to your manager who is responsible for work assignments, and for the arrangements for health and safety at work.

Please complete the form and tick the appropriate box for the questions listed; if you have any other condition that you believe should be considered, please write brief details at the bottom of the page, or continue on a separate sheet of paper.

Current control measures

Control measures can be preventative (prevent workplace pressure or hazards from happening in the first instance) or protective (protect employees from existing workplace pressure or hazards). It is, therefore, important that all measures in place are listed here to show what is already being done; for example, hold regular meetings with the employee/s to discuss performance and offer further support, if necessary; have signposted employee to his/her GP and given them details of the health and wellbeing portal, and tasked them with looking at resilience information before next meeting; employee is due to start a training course the following week to ensure skills are up to date.
